An Organization helping our troops

◤ # 1 ◥

by Dennis Aubuchon

This article is about an organization that has created a mechanism to provide support to our military personnel. The organization is called www.AnySoldier.com. It is an organization to support our troops and give them encouragement. This organization and the people involved with it should be highly respected. The news coverage of events in Iraq as an example does not always provide the positive aspects. Some organizations seem to constantly have a negative perspective on the situation in Iraq. Those who serve us in Iraq and the rest of the world should be given the encouragement that we support their mission and appreciate their sacrifice. Being away from family and friends in a distant country is not an easy task to bear but our troops do it everyday.

Those in our country have a right to their opinion under the guarantee of free speech. However the type of coverage received in the news about Iraq and other events does not necessarily provide an accurate picture of the true situation in Iraq. While some coverage of this nature may not be on purpose, our troops need to hear that the positive things they are accomplishing are given ample coverage. Our troops also need an avenue to provide some of the positive things taking place everyday. This site www.anysoldier.com provides such a resource.

This site is for any military person who is making the sacrifice to keep us safe at home in the United States. There is a wealth of information provided such as to what our soldiers want and need which sometimes is not easily obtained. Our government furnishes clothing, equipment, training and other items that are necessary to keep our soldiers safe. Our soldiers need letters of encouragement to let them know that we appreciate their sacrifices. Letters can mean more than you know when you are far away from home. There is information on this site which provides contact points to distribute letters and packages to any soldier. There are also pictures of positive situations taking place daily. Many of the focal points provide pictures and what is happening in their units. This is the kind of information that should be distributed more widely. .

I am not sure how I found this site but I am happy I did. Those reading this article can find a link to this site and the information through my web site http://www.myqualitywriting.com/AmericanHeroes.html Our soldiers need all the support that we can give them. It does not matter whether we agree or disagree with the conflict in Iraq or other places. We should support all our troops no matter where they are serving.

In summary this site and the information and service it performs has received publicity in the past but I felt it needed all the exposure it can get. The information provided on the site lets you know the positive things that are happening in Iraq and other places. This kind of information deserves more exposure than it gets. This organization was started to support one unit but it developed to support any unit from any military service in harm's way. Check out the site and you will see how important this organization is and the positive impact it has on our military serving us everywhere.
